

Bus Plunges Into a River, Seven Missing

NEW YORK (AP) — A coronary attack suffered by the driver caused a bus to swerve into the East River Monday with an apparent loss of seven lives, an autopsy report said today. Four passengers were saved.

The report said John E. Albert, 51, driver of the department of hospitals bus, had suffered a previous attack in November, 1960.

The report, issued by Dr. Milton Halpern, medical examiner, said Albert died of drowning.

It said the examination also showed that Albert had "a fresh acute thrombotic occlusion of the right coronary artery." It added:

"Although the deceased had a history of hospitalization for a coronary attack in November, 1960, his son stated that he had been without symptoms since that time and that he was apparently well during the weekend and morning of his death prior to his sudden collapse while driving the bus, causing it to swerve off the road into the East River."

Harbor squad police meanwhile grappled for the body of Beatrice Sturdivant, 24, a typist of six summed drowned. Bodies of six other persons aboard the bus have been recovered. All had drowned, autopsies showed.

"The bus as completely submerged. I can't swim. I knew I was going to die," said one of four survivors of Monday's accident on Welfare Island.

Elizabeth Newton, 41, said she literally hung on to the coatrails of another passenger, Richard Haas, 36, who broke through a door and dragged her up to the surface.

The bus careened off a road on Welfare Island when the driver, John Alberts, 51, apparently suffered a heart attack.

Two Tornado Funnels Are Sighted

Two tornado funnels were sighted in Arkansas Monday night, but neither touched the ground and turbulent weather passed through the state without doing significant damage.

A severe weather alert expired at 4 a. m. today.

One tornado funnel was sighted four miles west of Cherry Valley by residents of the area. Its winds caused slight damage to houses in the area. The other funnel was sighted eight miles north of Forrest City on state Highway 1.

Two State Police patrol units reported sighting the funnel. They said it did not touch the ground and no damage was reported.

The Cross County Sheriff's Office reported that power lines and utility poles were knocked down by high winds in the vicinity of Cherry Valley. No injuries were reported.

Heavy rain was reported in most parts of Arkansas Monday and Monday night. The Weather Bureau in Little Rock said Newport reported the largest amount, 3.04 inches. Some hail was reported.

The Weather Bureau predicted cloudy skies, much colder temperatures and occasional light rain or drizzle for Arkansas today and tonight. No more severe weather was expected immediately.

Skies were expected to clear over the west tonight. Sunny and warmer was the outlook for Wednesday. Low temperatures tonight were expected to be in the 20s northwest to 40s southeast.

Conway got 1.76 inches of rain in an hour as a storm moved swiftly across north central Arkansas. Small hailstones were reported in Conway and Harrison. Schools were dismissed in Harrison Monday afternoon as a precautionary measure. Harrison got 1.02 inches of rain.

Black Rock recorded 2.10 inches of rain, Augusta 2.45, Crystal Valley near Little Rock 2 inches and Little Rock 1.05 inches.

Pine Bluff got only .20 of an inch, El Dorado .27 and Texarkana .16.

Overnight low temperatures ranged from 35 in Fayetteville to 52 at Pine Bluff and 61 in the Memphis-West Memphis area.

Hundreds Flee From Floods in Four States

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Hundreds of persons from four states—Ohio, West Virginia, Indiana and Pennsylvania—have been forced from their homes by floodwaters after drenching rains and melting snows.

More rain splashed across wide areas in the flood-stricken areas. Rain also continued in many other parts of the eastern half of the nation, with more snow in Northern and Western sections.

Ohio reported the state's worst flood conditions in four years. Hundreds of persons were evacuated from their homes, and scores of families were marooned. With more rain predicted, the Weather Bureau in Cincinnati said the Ohio River appeared likely to be bank-full along its 981-mile route.

More than 100 families in residential sections of Wheeling, W. Va., a city of about 57,000, were evacuated and 500 persons were reported forced to leave their homes from Vienna, south of Wheeling. Flooding also was reported in Wellsburg, McKinleyville and Moundsville while the small town of Louise was reported isolated by the floodwaters. High water forced the closing of a Wheeling machine products plant employing about 600 men. Streams in many other areas in West Virginia were overflowing.

An emergency was declared in Newark, a central Ohio town of 39,000, as the Licking River and tributaries neared flood stage. Fifty families were marooned in Newtown near Steubenville and boats were sent to the town by Continued on Page Two

DeAnn 4-H Club Keeps Very Active

DeAnn 4-H Club meets the first Monday of each month. The year of 1962 the group attended 12 regular meetings and three parties, a winter roast, hay ride and Christmas party.

Each meeting the parliamentary procedure plan is carried out and one girl and one boy gives a demonstration, sings songs and recreation and refreshments.

In the month of March a 15-minute program was given over KXAR and put out posters and 4-H magazines in offices of Hope.

In June activity day at City Hall was held and several members participated in the dress review, cooking, method demonstration, tractor driving, we received several awards on that day.

Fun day was enjoyed in July at the Experiment Station. In August each member brought workbooks and conducted a workshop on a called meeting.

Members who were recognized at the Achievement Banquet in November were Barbara Avery, Calvin Willis, Judy Samuel, Dick Willis, Becky Willis and Jimmy Carver. The club received an award from Southwest Electric Power Company of $20, also Jimmy Carver received a $10 award for truck crop of watermelons.

The club is proud of its new building.

Officers for 1963 are as follows: President, Dick Willis; vice president, Larry Harper; secretary, Judy Samuel; Reporter, Jimmy Carver; Recreation Leaders, Becky Willis and Jimmy Harden; Photographer, Jimmy Carver.

Claims Anti-Reds Working in Cuba

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (AP) —The Pompano Beach Sun Sentinel said today an anti-Castro organization of more than 170 independent guerrilla units has set up a radio station in the Escambray Mountains of Cuba.

The newspaper said the station, known as "Radio Rebelde," carried its first broadcast a week ago.

The paper quoted unidentified sources as saying attacks against Fidel Castro's forces will be directed through the station.

Bill Would Up State Driver's License Fee

By JOHN R. STARR
LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas Legislature has a new tax proposal to consider today.

The proposed tax increase is small—$1 per year in the driver's license fee. The new revenue, estimated at $800,000 a year, would go to the State Police to provide for additional troopers.

Sen. J. Lee Bearden of Leachville introduced the bill. He said the State Police agency was always in financial difficulty and the new money would take care of this.

The driver's license fee was raised from $1 to $2 a year in 1957. Bearden's bill would make it $3.

Sen. Merle Peterson of Dumas withdrew a bill Monday which would have provided for a biennial driver's license at a cost of $5.

Ouachita County Rep. David Pryor's bill to require that the state highway director be a registered engineer with five years roadbuilding experience received a hard blow Monday when the House Roads and Highways Committee put a "do not pass" recommendation on it by an 11-1 vote.

The Pryor bill was introduced after reports circulated about the capitol that Highway Director F. R. Oliver, an engineer, might be replaced by Mack Sturgis, now state purchasing agent and not an engineer.

Both houses spent most of Monday's session working on routine bills.

Shover 4-H Club Reports Activities

The Shover Springs 4-H Club was organized in the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Hawkins several years ago. Twelve charter members were taken into the club.

In 1962 the Shover Spring club shared the honor of being County Champions with the DeAnn Club. Several members participate each year in all county activities.

The present officers of the club are president, Judy England; vice president, Jimmy Powell; secretary, Lorena Arrington. Assisting these officers with club duties are Dwayne Arrington, reporter; and Linda Kay Reese, song leader; Linda Arrington, recreation chairman and Lanette Arrington, scrapbook chairman.

Adults serving as leaders of the club are Laura Sue England, main leader; Mrs. Truman Arrington, girls leader and Truman Arrington, boys leader.

AIDC Budget Untouched by Committee

By JOHN R. STARR
LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The legislature's Joint Budget Committee left the Arkansas Industrial Development Commission budget undisturbed as far as money is concerned today but it put the urgency securely under the thumb of the governor.

On motions by Perry County Rep. Paul Van Dalsem, the committee voted to attach riders to the bill providing that AIDC employees shall serve at the pleasure of the governor, that the governor will have the final say on how a $160,000 allocation for advertising and a $20,000 appropriation for professional services shall be spent.

The only dissenting vote against any of the motions was cast by Sen. Robert Harvey of Swifton.

Voting with Van Dalsem were Sens. Tom Allen of Brinkley and Russell Elrod of Siloam Springs and Reps. L. H. Autry of Mississippi County, Pat Teague of Carroll county, Jack Oakes of Woodruff County and Talbot Field of Hempstead County.

Autry and Van Dalsem figured in a legislative move during the last two weeks to oust Winthrop Rockefeller as chairman of the AIDC. The move failed but Van Dalsem indicated he would act later to strip the AIDC of some of its authority.

The budget approved today allocates $510,700 a year for operation of the agency. This is the amount recommended by the Legislative Council.

The legislature has a new tax proposal to consider today.

Pollination Important for Pastures

Livestock farmers with clover pastures should be interested in pollination, says County Agent Calvin J. Caldwell.

Clover plants must produce abundant seed to keep pastures well seeded for stands go down when seed production is cut.

Clovers are cross pollinated and the flower is so constructed that it must be tripped by a bee before it is fertilized. Abundance of wild bees will do a satisfactory job of pollination, but in many areas wild bee populations are not high enough or properly located to do the job of pollination.

Livestock farmers and beekeepers should get together. Clovers in pastures make very good honey. In most areas beekeepers are glad to set an apiary yard near legume pastures. Both the beekeepers and livestock farmer benefit from good legume pastures.

Visitation Day Set for Wednesday

The Chamber of Commerce visitation day, the first in a series, leaves downtown Hope Wednesday at 10:30 a. m. Some 45 have already signed up to make the tour.

The first stop is DeAnn at 11 a. m.; Blevins at 11:30 a. m.; McCaskill at 12:30 p. m.; Ozan at 2:30 p. m. At Blevins the group will visit the Stephens Egg Farm and at McCaskill the group will have lunch in the RCI building.

The purpose of the visits is to become better acquainted with our neighbors, a C of C spokesman said.

What Our Senators Pay Staff

By GORDON BROWN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Members of Congress, in addition to being national legislators and guardians of the interests of their states and districts are also employers.

Each senator and representative employs office help — administrative assistants, legislative assistants, research assistants, secretaries, clerks and the like.

Amounts vary. But House members from Arkansas have approximately $45,000 yearly while senators have available about $115,000.

Arkansas House members average five employees each on their payrolls, the senators 11.

The number of employees varies from office to office. In many states, House members have as many as nine and 10 employees, the senators 15 to 20.

Payrolls of the congressmen are available for public inspection, although in different form.

The House makes its payrolls available each month while the Continued on Page Two

Chance for Disarmament Seem Slim

EDITOR'S NOTE—For 17 years the United States has operated on the assumption that disarmament may be possible. What are the current chances, and is it a case of now or never? John M. Hightower, Pulitzer Prize winning AP writer who has covered the ups and downs of disarmament efforts for many years, analyzes the situation.

An AP News Analysis
By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP)—The best chance the Soviet Union and the United States may ever have to end the nuclear arms race now appears to be collapsing under the weight of a new disarmament deadlock.

This, at least, is the grim view of the current state of East-West arms control negotiations held by some high officials responsible for U.S. policy.

It is a view subject to sharp dispute.

A serious question can be raised as to whether any real chance of accord between Moscow and Washington has existed since the start of the cold war—or will exist while the cold war continues. Some authorities say "until you can settle the Berlin problem, until Moscow and Peking abandon their ambitions to take over the world, how can you expect to disarm?"

But for 17 years the United States has operated on the assumption that disarmament may be possible. That hope persists today.

The hope rests now, as in the past, on a deeper belief that at some point the Soviet Union will begin to change its fundamental world position and move toward agreements with the West. Then the often-cited need of all nations to avoid destruction in a great nuclear war could begin to have its impact.

What makes the present stalemate at Geneva critical is that recent Soviet actions have dealt a severe blow to this deeper belief precisely when American leaders thought it might finally be justified by what had seemed to be some new trends in Soviet policy.

The high optimism about the chances for a nuclear test ban which prevailed here within the past two months was born in the aftermath of the Cuban crisis. There is no doubt that President Kennedy, Secretary of State Dean Rusk and other leaders felt some great results might flow from the easing of the nerve-racking confrontation of the United States and the Soviet Union over Cuba last October.

This optimism was prevalent when Soviet Premier Khrushchev last Dec. 19 sent a note to the President reversing his stand on international inspection to police a test ban inside the Soviet Union as well as on the territory of the United States and Britain. He said he would accept two or three on-site inspections a year. This was contrary to the position which he had taken in November 1961.

Khrushchev had said during the Cuban crisis that he was willing to have on-site inspection of the removal of Soviet missiles and bombers from Cuba and a change in his position on that issue of the test ban negotiations had been expected.

One other fact of basic importance in Washington's view entered into the calculation of American officials, his was—and is—that with France already in the process of becoming a nuclear power it was only a question of time and probably not a very long time until Red China would explode a nuclear device and introduce a wholly new and dangerous element into the world power balance.

It has therefore seemed to officials here that the period between the ending of the Cuban crisis and the further spread of nuclear weapons—a restless period marked also by wide-open splits in both the Communist and Western camps—offered an unusually hopeful prospect for progress toward a disarmament breakthrough.

In mid-January there seemed to be no doubt that the United States and Britain on one hand and the Soviet Union on the other were closer to agreement on a nuclear test ban treaty with inspection safeguards than they had been at any time in the past. Today they seemed to be as far apart as ever.

The deadlock has developed, as the dispute now stands, over the difference between Khrushchev's two or three inspections a year and the eight or 10 which Kennedy has asked with an indication that he would reduce the number if other inspection problems were solved at the same time.

In a speech in Moscow Wednesday, Khrushchev slammed the door on any new concessions from his side, saying "nothing else can be expected from us."

His statement came as no surprise because in talks in this country in late January and more recently at the 17 national disarmament conference in Geneva his representatives had taken the same line.

Their unyielding stand was initially a surprise and disappointment.

ear. He was in critical condition at the hospital Monday night.

Raymond Ralph Roberts, 47, formerly of El Dorado, was charged with assault with intent to kill. He was held in the Pulaski County Jail here in lieu of $10,000 bond.

No date was set for a preliminary hearing, the FBI said.

Roberts was arrested by North Little Rock police 20 blocks from the Veterans Administration Hospital at Fort Roots in North Little Rock. He was stopped two hours after the shooting was reported.

Miss Nell Ulrich, Herlocker's secretary, said someone closed the door between her office and the doctor's office. She said she heard a shot, saw a patient run from the room, with Herlocker slumped over his desk.

Police said a .32 caliber bullet was found on the floor of the office, along with an unexploded cartridge. Doctors said a bullet went in Herlocker's ear and out the other side.

The FBI declined to comment Monday night on whether a weapon had been found.

The hospital grounds were searched by Fort Roots Police, North Little Rock Police and the FBI. A patient in a wheelchair across the hall from Herlocker's office apparently saw the patient who left Herlocker's office, also.

Tom Cauley, VA regional information director, said Roberts had been in and out of the hospital for some time. He said Roberts stayed for two weeks and was granted a weekend pass, but did not return to his quarters Monday.

Herlocker, married and father of two children, had been at Fort Roots since 1958. His children, a boy and girl, are of high school age. He came to Fort Roots from are known dead. One woman is missing.

Welfare Island, less than two miles long, is a narrow strip in the East River between Manhattan and Queens. It is occupied by a city hospital complex. All those aboard the bus worked for the city's department of hospitals, which operated the vehicle.

The bus catapulted off a sea wall and came to rest on its side near the shore. Before police could get there, tides swept the vehicle 60 feet out into the river, 20 feet below the surface.

The drama inside the bus was described by Haas, a physiotherapist.

"I saw the driver bend down," he said. "When he didn't get up, I figured he had a heart attack. I jumped up and tried to grab the wheel but the bus skidded and I was thrown off my feet."

Bystander, Gloria Fulwider, a medical records librarian, said, "It is the grace of God that I'm not in there. I usually take that bus at lunchtime, but today I was too busy."

Dead, besides driver Alberts, are Catherine Quinn, 57, and Rosie Tait, 48, both ward clerks; Alexander E. Reichelt, 58, an occupational therapist; Robert Perez, 45, a physiotherapist; and Gertrude Porter, about 70, a Red Cross volunteer worker. All are from New York City except Reichelt, of Metuchen, N.J.

Missing is Beatrice Sturdevant, 34, a typist, also of New York.

Some 1,500 persons were isolated in the village of Morrow, in southern Ohio. Emergency shelters were set up in Springfield as the Mad River reached three feet below flood stage. Some railroad tracks in Springfield were inundated.

Rainfall in Ohio during a 24-hour period ranged from more than 3½ inches in Bourneville to more than 1 inch in Akron.

The rains and melting snow swelled the Ohio and Monongahela rivers in Pittsburgh and caused flooding of creeks in some areas. Water spilled over low-lying streets in Carnegie and nearly all the main roads leading into Canonsburg were closed by high waters. The town of Marianna was isolated by flood waters that covered its two main roads. Some families were evacuated in Cecil Township, near Marianna.

In Indiana, weathermen predicted crests past flood stage on the Wabash and White rivers and a dozen of small tributaries. Hundreds of highways and rural roads were awash. A dozen families were evacuated from a swamped area southwest of Indianapolis.

The nation's major wet belt covered areas from the central Plains eastward through the middle Mississippi Valley, the Ohio Valley, the lower Great Lakes and northeastward into southern Maine.

up a $150,000 fund with which the state would match local funds allocated for purchase of voting machines. The vote was 17-8 against the proposal.

The Senate also defeated a bill to provide for refund of 4½ cents of the 6½-cent per gallon state gasoline tax on fuel used in city buses. Sen. Joe Hittley of El Dorado gave notice of reconsideration and the bill, which needs 18 votes to pass, can be brought up again. The Senate last week cut the state license fee for buses from $50 to $15.

The Senate passed a House bill to permit purchase of land off the capitol grounds as a site for a new Revenue Building and to set a punishment for persons who leave the state hospital or one of the tuberculosis sanatorium before they are discharged.

The House defeated a bill to set up a state board to regulate collection agencies and a resolution calling on Congress to propose the so-called liberty amendment to the federal constitution. The amendment would prohibit the government from engaging in activities in conflict with private business and abolish the federal income tax.

Passed by the House and sent to the Senate were bills to:

Increase license fees on plumbers to finance a better inspection system.

Make it legal for females under 18 to work between 6 a.m. and 7 a.m. and between 9 p.m. and 10 p.m. Present legal working hours for females are between 7 a.m. and 9 p.m.

Put a 2 per cent premium tax on Arkansas fire insurance companies with proceeds to go to firemen's pension funds. (Out of state companies already pay the tax.)

Perry County Rep. Paul Van Dalsen introduced a resolution Monday calling on the Public Service Commission to investigate the rate and profit structure of Arkansas Power and Light Co., to determine if the utility is earning an illegal rate of return.

A resolution calling for a Legislative Council study to determine whether the state should operate its own printing plant was tied up in the morning hour. It was expected to come up again today.

The House Roads and Highways Committee, meeting after adjournment, heard half a dozen persons argue for the Pryor bill at a public hearing. No one spoke against the bill.

Former Gov. Sid McMath said he was for the bill because the highway director should be more than a go-between politicians and the Highway Department.

The committee failed to act on a bill to give cities an additional $4½ million annual from highway revenues at the expense of the state highway fund. Apparently the committee intends to sit on the bill. Motions were made to recommend the bill out "do pass" and "do not pass" but neither got a second.

Sen. Doug Bradley's bill to set a truck speed limit 10 miles per hour under the speed limit for cars got "do pass" by a 6-5 vote.

The committee also recommended passage of bills to set up a state aid system of county roads.

The Senate amended the Welfare Department appropriation bill to cut the salary for county visitors back to $3,700 a year. The House had raised this figure to $4,000 a year on an amendment by Rep. Clyde Kinslow of Pope County. The $3,700 figure was recommended by the Welfare Department, the Legislative Council and the governor.

Sen. Joe Lee Anderson of Helena withdrew a bill which would have cut state aid to districts who fail to levy a school tax of 30 mills locally. Anderson said he didn't think the bill could pass the House.

Gov. Orval E. Faubus signed the truck license fee increase bill into law Monday. He earlier had signed a companion measure boosting truck weight limits.

Suspension of Equal Time Deal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Oren Harris, D-Ark., chairman of the House Commerce Committee, has announced he would be willing to consider suspending broadcasting's equal time rule from races for president, vice president, governor and U. S. senators.

But Harris told CBS President Frank Stanton to "take a little time" and not to press now for the complete repeal of the equal time rule.

The blast also sank another barge moored nearby. Chunks of steel the size of automobiles were hurled as far as six blocks.

Both Stanton and NBC Board Chairman Robert W. Sarnoff have urged repeal of the rule.

The subcommittee held a hearing Monday on a proposal to suspend the equal time provisions during 1964 presidential campaigns which was done in 1960 and resulted in the television debates between candidates John F. Kennedy and Richard M. Nixon.

Unless the law is suspended, broadcasters would be compelled to give equal time to any candidate who demanded it, no matter how obscure his party might be

ON THE BIG COMPACT THAT'S SELLING BIG

There's a big story behind Dart's success in the compact field. Roominess is a large part of it. Here's family-size room, king-size comfort. Dart is the compact in the large economy size, backed by a 5-year/50,000-mile warranty*. No wonder Dart sales since the October introduction are 109% ahead of last year's Dodge compact sales for the same period. Get Dart and drive happily ever after.

*Your Dodge Dealer's Warranty against defects in material and workmanship on 1963 cars has been expanded to include parts replacement or repair without charge for required parts or labor for five years or 50,000 miles, whichever comes first, on the engine block, head and internal parts; transmission case and internal parts (excluding manual clutch); torque converter, drive shaft, universal joints (excluding dust covers), rear axle and differential, and rear wheel bearings—provided the vehicle has been serviced at reasonable intervals according to the Dodge Certified Car Care schedule.

CHATTER

By BILL RALEY

There was a time when a "walk" was considered a stroll in the moonlight, a leisurely Sunday afternoon pastime or something you had to do when somebody else was using the car. Times have changed now and little, big, young and old are hiking down the highway, on the road to better health. No more can you count on doing your good deed for the day by stopping to pick them up, even tho it might be the President, some of his family or staff. They do not want to ride... thank you.

It is really a switch for a salesman to stop a hitchhiker, ask him if he would kindly drive the car for the next fifty miles, he himself would like to walk!

It is estimated that sales ladies walk an average of nine miles each day at their normal work. This is considerable less than 50 miles and at the end of the day we can out-sprint anybody on our dash to the car.

Well, we think this walking business is fine and we suggest that you start out immediately and head straight for Raley's. No matter how far it is you will be revived the minute you start looking at the new spring clothes. The "Young International Look" is being introduced by Jon McCauley. Yes, Jon's done it again, stirring up a lot of excitement for young women who admire the Washington look... The London look... The look of Paris and Rome. Pretty, Chic, Wonderful and at sensible prices, not the hundreds of dollars you'd pay in Paris and Rome.

You are invited to come by today, find your own individual, international look in Jon's latest collection.

It is spring shopping time and we hope to be seeing you at Raley's Style Shops — Hope's House of Fashion.

Republican Women will meet Thursday, March 7 at 7:30 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Haskell Jones at Oakhaven. All interested women are invited.

The Hope Chapter No. 328, Order of the Eastern Star, will hold its regular meeting, Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at the Hope Masonic Hall. All members are urged to attend.

The Gardenia Garden Club will meet at 1:30 p.m. Thursday, March 7 in the home of Mrs. Lyle McMahan with Mrs. Harry Couch, co-hostess. Mrs. J. A. Haynes will have charge of the program.

Circle 2 WSCS Meets

Circle 2 of the WSCS of the First Methodist Church met March 4 with Mrs. R. D. Franklin, Miss Dell McClanahan Co-Hostess.

The leader, Mrs. Blair Shuford, opened the meeting with prayer; reports were given; World Banks collected; and Mrs. Johnny Green assisted by Mrs. Leland Warmack gave the program. The subject being, "The Biblical Foundation of Missions."

The hostess served coffee and a desert plate to nine members.

Circle 1 WSCS Meets

The Circle 1, WSCS, of the First Methodist Church met March 4 with Mrs. R. D. Franklin, Miss Dell McClanahan Co-Hostess.

Mrs. Pearl Owen, Leader, called the meeting to order and Miss McClanahan prayed the opening prayer.

Mrs. D. G. Richards, Treasurer, had roll call and collection of dues. She then gave her report, up to date world banks were opened and the amount was $30.07. Mrs. Owen conducted the business session and told of the prayer cells and prayer groups which will begin at once and put up our revival and the anniversary of Wesley's Oldersgate Experience. A note of thanks from Mrs. E. S. Burke was read.

Mrs. W. R. Burke gave the devotional, her subject, "Channels of Spiritual Power" and "How to be a Spiritual River", John 7:38 Mrs. Louis Connell presented the program, New Frontiers and Home Missions, Mrs. T. S. McDavitt assisted and gave excerpts from an article on rural areas and their need for religious workers.

Mrs. Connell closed the program with an article on the needs for workers in San Diego and a prayer. The hostesses served delicious refreshments to fifteen members and one visitor, Mrs. Ward.

Rose Garden Club Meets

The Rose Garden Club met on Friday, March 1 in the home of Mrs. L. D. Barnum. Mrs. Garrett Story and Mrs. Steve Bader were assistant hostesses. The president, Mrs. Ray Allen, called the meeting to order, and Mrs. J. O. Luck voiced the opening prayer.

During the business meeting, the State Federation of Garden Clubs meeting to be in Little Rock was discussed, as was the district meeting to be in Magnolia March 12. Mrs. Luck and Mrs. George Hughes reported on the organization Feb. 26 of the

DOROTHY DIX

NO AGE LIMIT ON LOVE!

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: I'm a widow of 64, who has been married twice. Now I find myself falling in love again with a man of 62. Am I nuts? Is he? I thought one could safely write this to that emotion after 60.

What is worse, this man's married though not getting along with his wife. She's the jealous kind; growls from the time he comes home till he goes to bed; wants to know all about every little thing that happened during the day; polices him like she was his keeper. He says this has been going on ever since they married.

He says, "Honey, this is it! Still I worry. If it's true love for him why doesn't he do something about getting a divorce."

Last time we saw each other he says, "Honey, I'll never forget you." I felt to thinking about that remark after he left and it's got me worried too.

Never in all my life have I experienced this kind of love. No school girl could be more smitten. We used to meet twice a week where I worked. Now I've changed jobs and we don't meet at all unless he comes to call. He told me his wife was going traveling and said, "I hope this leads to my freedom."

What did he mean by that I can't figure him out. They've only been married five years and never hit it off. All our children on both sides are married so that presents no problem. He tells me he loves me and says, "Honey, I would never lie to you." But here I am still a lonely widow woman. Please help. —Very Unhappy

Dear Very: This surreptitious game you're playing is all wrong. If it were true love, your friend about getting a divorce

When a man says, "Honey, I'll never forget you," he most certainly will. This two-liner has a bit of the wolf in him. His reluctance to divorce his wife plainly indicates that. Nothing but unhappiness lies ahead if you fall for the sweet talk of a married man. Cross him off until he is free and then think twice before saying "Yes."

Dear Helen: When things don't go my husband's way he sulks and looks like a thunder cloud. This can be very nerve-racking, especially when friends are calling. I try to smooth things over and act as if nothing had happened but that's not easy with this grouchy right under our noses, glowering and glumming. Help! —Peace Lover would be proud to say so. His last about being married to a married is an old one.

Dear Peace: Grouches usually need a physical or mental check-

You're lonely and as a consequence, indulge in wishful thinking. There is only one thing for you to do in a relationship as uncertain as this: be realistic.

Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for my leaflets, "Glum to Glow" and "The Ideal Husband." Yours might profit by reading them.

It is abnormal to be cranky or ill-tempered. Ask your doctor to take a look at your husband.

Dear Stage Struck: Buy a copy of "Summer Theatres," that Bible of all young actors, which lists productions, directors and job openings for the coming summer theatrical season. The directory costs $3, and is on the newsstands this month. Its parent magazine, Show Business, and the weekly newspaper "Variety" should also be required reading if you intend

Cargo Ship and Tug Collide

FORTESCUE, N.J. (AP)—A refrigerator cargo ship and a tug boat and its tow barge collided in the fog near the mouth of the Delaware River this morning, the Coast Guard reported.

There were no injuries reported, and although the cargo ship, the President Magsaysay, took on some water, the Coast Guard said it was in no danger.

The tug was the D. T. Sheridan and was towing the barge the Kathleen Sheridan, loaded with coal.

The Coast Guard said the tug en route to Philadelphia from Newport News, Va., reported only minor damage.

Oklahoma Opens Today at Saenger

With its opening Tuesday at the Saenger Theatre at popular prices Rodgers and Hammerstein's screen version of "Oklahoma!" is beginning another phase in its illustrious career.

The history of "Oklahoma!" began March 31 1943 when the play debuted at the St. James Theatre in New York City marking the beginning of the partnership of Richard Rodgers and Oscar Hammerstein II. It was a prophetic beginning of a long and spectacularly successful career for the two music men which lasted until the recent death of Hammerstein producing along with "Oklahoma!" some of the greatest musical shows in history.

Estimates say that since that opening, more than 32 million people have paid over $100,000,000 to see and applaud "Oklahoma!" at more than 8,000 performances. It runs from one night to five years nine weeks, "Oklahoma!" has played in 252 cities here and in Canada. And, as a stage production, it has been presented in nine countries outside the U.S. After 2,202 performances, "Oklahoma!" ended its original Broadway run.

Originally presented as a movie in the Todd-AO process, the film premiered at New York's Rivoli Theatre on a roadshow basis, to press and public acclaim. It went on to worldwide acclaim with a success even more phenomenal than the stage presentation.

The film version, now being shown in Cinema Scope with color by Technicolor, was produced by Arthur Hornblow Jr., and directed by Fred Zinnemann. It stars Gordon MacRae, Gloria Grahame, Shirley Jones, Gene Nelson, Charlotte Greenwood, Eddie Albert, James Whitmore and Rod Steiger.

Menotti Has Got to Be Kidding

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Gian Carlo Menotti has got to be kidding. He has taken a typical too much before bedtime nightmare, added a musical score and lyrics and called it an "operatic riddle." The result, "Labyrinth," had its first performance Sunday afternoon on NBC.

The short opera, NBC proclaimed widely in advance, was "surrealistic," and it did indeed capture that dream quality of Salvador Dali's paintings. It also had something of Dali's roughness, so maybe it was all a joke.

Menotti appeared to prepare us for the "pure fantasy." He explained the symbolism: the old man was the past, the astronaut was the future, the hotel was life, the desk clerk was dead hand so on.

It was not enough. The show opened on a long, long hotel corridor with a bride and groom, in full regalia, as the groom hunted frantically for the key to their room.

The whole hour was devoted to

Everybody Sounds Off on Tax Cut

EDITORS NOTE — Letters by the thousands pour into Washington every day from people across the land who want to speak up on the great tax debate. Even youngsters are sounding off on whether taxes should be cut. Raymond J. Crowley, a veteran on the Washington scene, takes a peek at some of the tax letters sent to the White House and Capitol Hill.

By RAYMOND J. CROWLEY
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Puritan ethic seems likely to suffer a defeat in this year 1963. The belting on Capitol Hill is that the American people will have to take a tax cut, whether or not they regard it as sinful.

Many of them do so regard it, at a time when the government is using red ink by the bucketful. This is shown by a vox pop survey—a rather extensive peek at letters received by Congress members and other officials.

Most of the letters — whether impecuniously typed, handwritten on yellow ruled paper or scrawled on postcards—say taxes are too high and need cutting.

However, many of them contain large "buts": Spending should be slashed to offset the revenue loss; reforms that discourage thrift, enterprise, home ownership and charity should be avoided.

In vain, the White House and Treasury say that the reforms President Kennedy has proposed would do no such thing; that nearly everybody would get a tax reduction. There is a deep-seated suspicion on the part of many that once the government begins tampering with their deductions, they will eventually wind up worse off.

Lately Kennedy has given first priority to tax cuts, hinting that if need be, reforms could wait for another year. This improved the prospect for a tax cut, even though formidable barriers remain.

Among them are Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., Senate Finance Committee chairman who loathes red ink; and Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee. They think reforms should accompany tax cuts.

The introduction of the phrase "Puritan ethic" in the great tax discussion did the Kennedy cause no good. Needled by a Congress-lady, Walter W. Heller, Kennedy's chief economic advisor, said it was remarkable that the "basic Puritan ethic" prompted the American people to balk at a tax cut in times of big deficits.

An example of a letter to Sen. Byrd:

"Who is this Mr. Heller, who thinks the more one spends the richer they are? All the so-called tax reforms are going to do is discourage thrift."

Another letter to the same Senator opposed tax cuts lest "we have a wild stampede like the great Romans had before they hit the bottom, sinking in the swamps of greed and self contentment."

Another: "My household (family of five) would collapse in short order if run by the financial precepts of the federal government."

But the same unease over spending crops up in letters together legislators. Here's one from a businessman to a Senator who backs the Kennedy program: "The pseudo tax cut, with suggested reforms, would only be further inflationary."

This Senator has received many like this, plus some on the other side.

Many who write appear motivated by their own economic circumstances. Businessmen tend to stress encouragement to free enterprise; spinsters say taxes hit single people unfairly; married folk ask consideration for the needs of the kiddies.

It is not all one-sided, however, as shown by this letter to a house

Desperation Shot Wins Game

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Sophomore Danny Sheets carried an incredible 45-foot desperation shot Saturday night to boost Lake Hamilton to the Class B boys State Basketball Championship.

His frenzied effort climaxed a second overtime, and put down Dyess 61-59.

Immediately thereafter Sheets flung himself on the floor, cried, and then explained: "I can't believe it."

Coach Tommy Barrett of Lake Hamilton, asked what he thought about it, replied calmly: "He was shooting for the basket, I imagine."

Lake Hamilton took an early lead and held a 21-11 first quarter advantage. Dyess cut this to two points, 34-32, by halftime, and stayed close the rest of the way.

Snowstorm Sweeps Out of Rockies

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A heavy snowstorm packed with gusty northerly winds swept across the southern Rockies into the central Plains today and headed into wide areas of the Midwest.

The early March storm dumped heavy snow in Colorado Wyoming and parts of Nebraska with amounts up to a foot in some sections. The snow spread into central Arizona and New Mexico northward through southern Utah.

Winds of 30 to 45 m.p.h. whipped the snow from northeastern Colorado northeastward across northern and central Nebraska and into southeast South Dakota and extreme northwest Iowa. There was much drifting and the blowing snow created hazardous driving conditions. No severe cold was reported.

Lighter amounts of snow were reported in Minnesota and Wisconsin. Heavy snow warnings were issued for areas from central and extreme northeast Nebraska extreme northern Iowa northward into eastern South Dakota and southern Minnesota.

Thunderstorms broke out in the mild air in southern and central Illinois while rain fell in northern areas and in parts of Iowa north central Kansas and eastern Missouri.

Fog and drizzle shrouded areas in southeast Texas eastward into coastal sections of Louisiana.

Coldest weather was along northern areas in the Midwest and in northern New England. One of the lowest readings was four below zero in Grand Forks N.D. It was near zero in Holton Maine.

Tells of Ike's Hunting Trip

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., told the Senate Monday former President Dwight D. Eisenhower gave wildlife conservation experts no comfort on a recent Mexican hunting trip.

Fulbright put into the Congressional Record a news story which credited Eisenhower with shooting 40 ducks and 30 other birds in three hours.

"This may demonstrate that the general's marksmanship has improved," Fulbright said, "but it's not much encouragement to the people who want to preserve wildlife."

Dr. Anders' Dilemma By Henry and Sylvia Lieferant

Rhoda has asked to make up with David as a result of the angry scene at the hospital dance.

Chapter XIV

Nancy's image in his mind had disappeared, but his sense of guilt was growing.

Rhoda was beautiful and pliable in his arms, and so yielding. She was kissing him eagerly, lovingly. And then with both her hands she pushed him away a little — no tentatively — but her eyes continued to invite him.

She was asking him something. Her words became clearer. "David! David! Please! I want you to promise me one thing."

She removed the obstacle of hands and brought her lips nearer to his.

"Promise me you'll take the job at Camwell. That's all I ask you."

"That job" instinctively he withdrew from her.

"Can't you do this for me, David? Is it too much for me to ask?"

Too much. How much she wanted him to do something for her. A price for kissing him.

Shakily he got to his feet, slowly straightening his whole body, ignoring her dismay.

"Forgive me, Rhoda. I had no right to do that."

"But you have," she insisted in a small voice, her composure at his feet.

"No, Rhoda. I'm sorry. I can't violate your father's hospitality — and yours." He didn't want to refer to the job at Camwell.

Unaccountably he was thinking of forgiveness. It was easy to forgive someone else, of so easy to forgive oneself.

Leaving her, he felt embarrassed again, terribly, excruciatingly embarrassed. He had to go even if in leaving her he added to her shame.

David paused on the steps of Harbor Hospital to watch two capped figures strolling down the street toward the pier and the anchored hospital ship. All the nurses in the world might wear blue capes, but only one carried hers like a royal garment.

The girl with her, he thought, was Thyra, her roommate. He would have to get rid of her without arousing her suspicions. He followed at a distance, keeping his eye on them.

Behind a locked kiosk which offered "Free Milk to Children" by day, David discovered the two figures.

"It's Dr. Anders!" Thyra said. He laughed at her excitement. "I have a message for Miss Horton. I saw you come down the street."

"Yes?" questioned Nancy. "It's personal. I'm afraid. Very personal. I'll have to tell you privately."

"All right, Doctor," Thyra agreed. "Gee, Nancy—" she whispered, "maybe it's from Dr. Thorne. Will you tell me about it if I go back alone?"

David's eyes traced the white streak of her apron until she had stepped off the pier.

"You have a message for me?" "Yes, but it's not from Dr. Thorne. It's from David Anders."

She gave him no encouragement.

"He says he's sorry he spoiled your fun the other night. He says — if Miss Brangwyn hadn't insisted, he wouldn't have poked his face into the place, and then he wouldn't have quarreled with you."

She sat rigid, her hands beneath

Man Killed in Collision

MALVERN, Ark. (AP) — Mrs. Arlis Hall, 50, of Benton, was killed in a car-truck collision near here on U.S. Highway 67 Monday. Mrs. Pauline Gohar, a companion, was seriously injured.

State Trooper Roy Kirkdoffer said a truck driven by Tino Costello, 64, of Poteet, Tex., collided with a car carrying the two women.

Porkers' Boyer Makes the All Southwest Pick

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Bennie Lenox of Texas A&M, the leading scorer, and Tommy Boyer of Arkansas, the ace of the free throws, were unanimous choices for the All-Southwest Conference basketball team named by the coaches.

Each got all eight votes to lead the brand new team—not a player repeated from last year.

Kendall Rhine, Rice's towering hotshot with the uncanny rebounding ability, lacked only one vote of being unanimous.

Texas, which won the championship by playing so many men it was difficult to figure out which was the outstanding star, came up with the other two places on the team. They were Jimmy Gilbert, the little guy with the talented outside shot, and Mike Humphrey, one of the big men of the Longhorn inside attack.

Boyer and Rhine both were coming up from the 1962 second team.

Dave Siegmund of Southern Methodist and Larry Wofford of Arkansas, who got votes for the first team, led the second unit. Others making the second team were Jerry Windham of Texas A&M, Bobby Gindorf of Texas Tech and James Thompson of Southern Methodist.

The only seniors on the first team were Boyer and Gilbert. All of the second teamers were seniors.

The All-Southwest conference team:

Bennie Lenox, Texas A&M, 6-2, Jr., League City, Tex.; Tommy Boyer, Arkansas, 6-6, Sr., Fort Smith, Ark.; Kendall Rhine, Rice, 6-9, Jr., Dupon, Ill.; Jimmy Gilbert, Texas, 5-9, Sr., Beaumont, Tex.; Mike Humphrey, Texas, 6-8, Jr., Midland, Tex.

The second team:

Larry Wofford, Arkansas, 6-6, Sr., Fort Smith, Ark.; Dave Siegmund, SMU, 6-7, Sr., Webster Groves, Mo.; Jerry Windham, A&M, 6-6, Sr., Hamilton, Tex.; James Thompson, SMU, 6-3, Sr., Bowie, Tex.; Bobby Gindorf, ex-Tech, 4, Sr., Pampa, Tex.

Honorable mention:

John Paul Fultz, Texas; Herb Steinkamp, Rice; Winston Moore, Baylor; Bobby McKinley, Texas Christian; Glen Hallum, Texas Tech; Larry Franks, Texas.

Boley Leads Tech to Win Over Tigers

RUSSELLVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Bill Boley shot Arkansas Tech into a 1-0 lead in the best two out of three District 17 NAIA playoff at Arkadelphia Monday night. He gets a chance to cinch a trip to Kansas City here tonight.

Boley's 38 points, including the last four of the game, boosted Tech past Ouachita 87-85 in overtime on the Tigers' home floor.

The Wonder Boys will have the feel of the hardwood tonight.

If Tech wins tonight, the Wonder Boys get a trip to the national NAIA tourney at Kansas City. If they lose, Ouachita and Tech lay again Wednesday at Pine Bluff to decide who goes.

Kenny Saylor, playing with a cast around a broken wrist, was pumped in 21 points to help Boley's outstanding effort bear fruit. Doug McKinney, a jumping jack with a good, soft jump shot, added 13 and Bob Ratchford netted 10.

Rangy Leon Clements sacked 24 for Ouachita. Wayne Davenport got 19, David Kossover 18 and Bill Denton 12.

But Boley's clutch gunning was the decisive factor.

Ouachita powered to a 44-41 halftime lead. Tech stayed close, but the Tigers were still on top, 79-75, with 3:45 to go. Boley and Saylor teamed up for a brace of free throws each, tying the score.

Ouachita went into a stall, going for the last shot. Boley and Davenport committed a double foul with 31 seconds left—a jump ball.

The Tigers controlled the tip, but missed a hurried shot.

In the overtime, the Wonder Boys scored first when Ratchford bucketed a pair of free tosses. Bill Neal tied it with a rebound to close it. Boley canned a 15-foot jumper from in the circle with 3:41 to play, putting Tech out front 83-81.

Davenport moved into the corner and fired in a two-hander. Boley followed with a driving lay-up, and a minute later added a pair of free throws. Tech led 87-83.

Al Weiner connected again for Ouachita, cutting it to 87-85, with 47 seconds to play. Ouachita blew it from then on in the Tigers' last half minute, and rolled a pair of free throws off the rim.

Ouachita, the AIC round-robin champion, lost in the semifinal round of the AIC tourney at Pine Bluff last week. Tech won the tourney, and became a candidate for the trip to Kansas City.

Cincinnati Tightens Grip on First

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

Cincinnati tightened its grip on the No. 1 position but a wave of upsets scrambled the rest of the Top Ten in The Associated Press' next-to-last college basketball poll of the season.

Only four places remained unchanged—Cincinnati, at the top; Duke, No. 2; Arizona State, No. 4, and Mississippi State, No. 7.

Ohio State, No. 3, and Wichita, No. 6, each leaped two rungs on the ladder. Loyola of Chicago, No. 5, and Illinois, No. 8, fell two spaces.

Stanford and Providence moved into the standings, taking over the Nos. 9 and 10 spots from New York University and Georgia Tech, both of whom suffered setbacks.

The Cincinnati Bearcats, who whipped Xavier of Ohio 72-61 and St. Louis 66-52, received 33 of the 42 first-place votes from a panel of sports writers and broadcasters. They collected 393 points on the basis of 10 for a first-place vote, 9 for second, etc.

Duke, which won the Atlantic Coast Conference tournament and increased its victory string to 18 games, collected eight of the remaining No. 1 votes with the other going to Providence.

The Top Ten with first-place votes in parentheses:

1. Cincinnati (33) 393
2. Duke (8) 329
3. Ohio State 260
4. Arizona State 253
5. Loyola of Chicago 196
6. Wichita 187
7. Mississippi State 140
8. Illinois 84
9. Stanford 52
10. Providence (1) 50

Others receiving votes (listed alphabetically): Auburn, Bowling Green, Bradley, Canisius, Colorado, Colorado State, Connecticut, Fordham, Georgia Tech, Idaho, Kansas State, Memphis State, Miami (Fla.), New York U., Seattle, St. Joseph's, Pa., Texas, Villanova, West Virginia.

Little Chance Reservoir to Lose Water

By LEN TALIAFERRO

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A spokesman for the Army Engineers said today there's little chance of the water in Bull Shoals Reservoir disappearing through a hole in the bottom of the lake.

Residents in the area of Bull Shoals are concerned about the hole, which was first noticed early in February. Henry Hall of Fairview saw water swirling and watched a small whirlpool form on the west side of the lake one mile west of Fairview.

At the time, water around the hole was seven or eight feet deep. Hall watched as the lake level dropped over the weeks and said at times the opening in the whirlpool was six or eight inches in diameter.

Army engineers began studying the pool which continued to grow until last week it reached nearly 35 feet square at the top.

Then the sides of the hole caved in. Army Engineers hope the cave-in sealed the hole. They are watching it.

Actually, engineers have never been seriously concerned about it. Similar problems have happened several times in the same area.

When it does occur and after studies have shown that an appreciable amount of water is being lost, engineers can plug the hole with concrete. They are hoping this won't be necessary because of the cave-in.

The current lake level is 639.82 feet above sea level, which is unusually low. However, engineers attribute this to the fact that rainfall has been six to eight inches below normal this year.

Holes develop in a porous limestone and clay bottom. Later seeping through limestone gradually eats an opening and pours into a fissure in the earth's crust below the lake.

One of the reasons engineers haven't been concerned about the present hole is because, even though at the top it was as large as 35 feet square, the actual outlet was only two feet in diameter.

Joe Alexander, assistant public information officer for the Army Engineers at Little Rock, said he was told the water lost through the hole was less than the loss through evaporation in the same area.

Engineers put dye in the hole last week and it reappeared in Dew Creek, which is about 2½ miles southeast of Bull Shoals.

To do this, the water had to flow beneath the White River, it reappears through a spring in the creek.

Since the cave-in, engineers have watched to see if water seepage has stopped. So far, there is no evidence that water is still leaking out. Engineers may put more dye in the hole later this week to determine if seepage is continuing.

NCAA Lands Kansas State, Ohio State

By SOE'LDON SAKOWITZ
Associated Press Sports Writer

Ohio State and Kansas State, having clinched a share of conference basketball championships, were one victory away today from capturing the titles outright and automatic berths in the NCAA Tournament.

Ohio State, ranked third in the latest Associated Press poll, maintained its one-game advantage over Illinois in the Big Ten race with an 85-65 victory over Minnesota at Minneapolis Monday night. Illinois, No. 8 nationally, turned back Northwestern at the opening of its new Assembly Hall, 79-73.

The Buckeyes are 11-2 in the league and the Illini 10-3. Both teams wind up their schedules Saturday afternoon. Ohio State is visiting Indiana while Illinois is host to Iowa.

An Ohio State victory or an Illinois defeat would give the Buckeyes their fourth straight crown. If the teams end up tied, Illinois would get the NCAA bid because Ohio State represented the Big Ten last season.

A showdown for first place also looms in the Big Eight after Kansas State whipped host Iowa State 78-71 and runner-up Colorado posted an 80-51 triumph at home over Nebraska.

The Wildcats boast an 11-2 league won-loss record with the Buffaloes still in contention at 10-3. The teams clash at Manhattan Saturday night and a K-State conquest would give the Wildcats the title.

If Colorado wins, the race would end in a tie. However, the Buffaloes would be the NCAA Tournament entry because of having beaten the Wildcats twice in the regular season. In an earlier meeting at Kansas State, Colorado prevailed 70-53.

Only one other member of the Top Ten saw action Monday night. Fourth-ranked Arizona State, winner of the Western Athletic conference, downed Arizona 53-53. The Sun Devils wound up with a 9-1 league mark and 24-2 overall record.

Catcher Chri Cannizzaro of the New York Mets and infielder John Schaive of the Washington Senators suffered the other mishaps.

Cannizzaro broke the ring finger of his right hand and is expected to be out for a month. Schaive, leading candidate for the Fayetteville, Ark. (AP) — The Arkansas Razorbacks shot for a third place finish in the Southwest Conference basketball race against Texas Christian University here tonight.

The Hogs have a 7-6 record and hold fourth place in the league. A triumph tonight would give them a tie for third place. A loss would only leave Arkansas in fourth place, which it has all to itself.

Earlier this year Arkansas beat TCU 81-59.

For head basketball coach Glen Rose, it will be the end of a hard-luck season.

Rose lost Jerry Rogers, an outstanding defensive man who was a starter at the first of the season; Bobby Anderson, a capable 6-7 backcourt man; Rogers hurt a knee, Anderson had academic difficulties.

Arkansas hasn't lost to TCU since 1959.

Paragould Is Dubbed the Team to Watch

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The tall men take the spotlight in the Class AA-AAA boys State Basketball Tournament here today.

Rangy rebounders make North Little Rock, Paragould and Jonesboro the favorites.

North Little Rock, winner of the Big Nine Conference title and No. 1 in The Associated Press Arkansas high school poll, is generally the favorite.

But North Side coach Jimmy Culp is dodging the favorite's role. Paragould is the team to watch, says Culp.

"They're tough," he said. "Tough enough to win it."

Culp had kind words for the Washington brothers — Gary and Manuel. Both stand over 6-3, are good rebounders and sharp shooters.

Some coaches are also ranking Little Rock Hall of the Big Nine as a contender. Jonesboro and Paragould are from Region 2AA.

Hall and Jonesboro meet in the first round today.

"This is wrong," said Jonesboro Coach Doug Cobb Monday. "I thought the tournament was supposed to be set up where the good teams wouldn't meet until the second round at least."

Today's pairings also included North Little Rock against Valley Springs of Region 1AA, Benton of Region 3AA against Malvern of Region 4AA, and Harrison of Region 1 against Crossett of Region 4A.

First round games continue through Wednesday.

Paragould gets its first action Wednesday against Fort Smith, another Big Nine school. Conway of 3AA meets Fayetteville of 1AA on Wednesday. Forrest City of 2AA plays Hope of 4 and Blytheville of the Big Nine goes against Russellville of 3A.

Height is the biggest factor in favor of the favorites, but they, naturally, are not without their gunners.

North Little Rock poses a starting lineup that averages over 6-2, and includes husky 6-4 men in Richard Baldwin and Jim Adams. Bobby Browning is one of the outstanding shooters in the Big Nine this season.

Paragould's height is centered in the Washington brothers, but the Preen County school also has 6-3 Ed Morten.

Jonesboro will have the tallest player in the tourney, John Dickson, who towers 6-9. The Golden Hurricane has respectable height in Mike Burk (6-5) and Clovis Swinney (6-3).
